The video recording also contains a scene showing urination that is preceded and followed by depictions of sexual activity. The scene is salacious and has the effect of encouraging the viewer to be sexually aroused by depictions of urination. The inclusion of the scene in this video recording, which is clearly intended to be used for sexual arousal, has the result that the video recording tends to promote and support the use of urine in association with sexual conduct.

The video recording meets criteria under s3(2)(a) and s3(2)(d) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993, and is therefore deemed to be objectionable. A classification of "objectionable" places a limit on the right to the freedom of expression as set out in s14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. However, in relation to this publication, the classification is considered to be a reasonable limit prescribed by law that can be demonstrably justified in a free and democratic society.
